Secretary Northrop's Lecture.

We would again call the attention of our readers to the lecture by Secretary Northrop on Friday evening, in the Presbyterian Church.

Among the most distinguished educators in our country Mr. Northrop stands very prominent. For several years he was connected with the Massachusetts State Board of Education, from which position he was called to take charge of the Public Schools of Connecticut, as Secretary of the Board of Education of that State.

He has traveled extensively in Europe, inspecting the best methods of instruction there, and few men in our land have labored more earnestly to advance the interests of education in our country. He has just completed a course of lectures in Baltimore, addressing crowded houses even in a state not noted for its interest in public education, and receiving for the same a high pecuniary compensation. We have seldom called the attention of our readers to a lecture which we are so sure will interest every thoughtful mind, and we very earnestly hope that our citizens generally, for their own sakes, by a full attendance will prove their appreciation of the opportunity so generously provided for them by a few of our public spirited citizens.

New Jersey Legislature.

On Monday a bill was introduced respecting special elections. It is to provide for a registration in cases where a special election is made necessary by the vacancy of an office during the time for which the last incumbent was elected. It provides that the County Clerk shall give notice of a revision of the registry of the last general election five days before the Saturday preceding the Tuesday on which the election is to be held. The registry is to be revised upon one day only instead of two, as is the case in general elections.

Bills were also introduce to repeal an act concerning brokers' frauds; to authorize cities to control fares, tracks, etc., of horse railroads, limiting fare to five cents and authorizing cars to be run without consent of townships; to extend lien law to married women's property; to authorize employees to sue railroad companies for wages; to extend jurisdiction of justices to $300; to authorize lawyers to sue for fees. The House authorized an examination into the management of the Lunatic Asylum, and passed the bill to prohibit the expenditure by county, township or city boards of more than their appropriations. A new school law was introduced by Speaker Carscallen. The repealer of the Belleville city charter was reconsidered, and a new bill will be introduced. The bill to appropriate $10,000 for the Centennial was reported.

In the Joint Committee a general law for Sheriffs, drawn by Mr. Howell, was discussed at some length and received most favorable consideration. Among the amendments proposed and accepted in committee is one providing that in case of the office becoming vacant by the death of its occupant, the Governor is to appoint a Sheriff to fill the place until the next general election.

Mrs. Riley, wife of ex-Alderman Riley of Orange was struck by a locomotive on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad at Orange and was instantly killed. She was attempting to cross the track at Commerce street as the train which leaves the Cone street depot at 3.35 o'clock was approaching, and had ample time to have crossed in safety had she not noticed after she got upon the track that another train was rapidly coming towards her from the opposite direction, when she became bewildered and stood still upon the track for a moment. The delay was fatal, as the loco. motive of the 3.25 train struck her and threw her from the track. When taken up she was found to be dead, her skull being fractured and and one shoulder being being badly bruised.

The South Orange Bulletin says: The five sisters, natives of Orange, now living in this county—one in Montclair, one in South Orange, and three in East Orange—the youngest 71 years old, and the aggregate of their ages 388 years—an average of nearly 78 years each, are Mrs. Thomas D. Kilburn, of South Orange, the youngest, aged 62; Mrs. Morris Dodd, the oldest, aged 90; Mrs. Stephen Dodd and Mrs. Harriet Pierson, of East Orange, and Mrs. John Munn, of Montclair. All the sisters, except Mrs. Kilburn, are widows.

—A widow has just died in Rome and left a quarter of a million dollars in cash to the Pope.

—Probabilities point to New London as the place where the Yale-Harvard race will be rowed.

—An attempt to repeal the compulsory education law in the State of California will be made during the present session of the Legislature.

—A girl, one of a bridal party of tourists, was recently blown off the highest cliff of the Giant's Causeway in Ireland, and, of course, instantly killed.

—A Londen dispatch announces that Prof. John Tyndall will shortly marry the daughter of the Right Hon. Lord Claude Hamilton.

—At a leap year party in Wilmington, N. C., recently, Joseph Walters was elected "belle" of the evening, and duly crowned as the Queen of love and Beauty.

—It is said that the U. S. Government has just sold the old steamer Macedonian for $15,000. The old veteran was captured from the British in 1812, and will perhaps be exhibited at the Centennial.

—Israel Caswell of Strafford, Rachel Elliott of Greenville, Margaret Evans of Concord, and Esther Faulkner of Chesterfield, all in New Hambshire, completed their 100th year in 1875, and are still living.

—A man in a small town down in Maine recently wrote to the Handel and Haydn Society in Boston asking how much they would charge to come down there and give a concert. The reply was that it would be cheaper to bring the town to Boston.

—Lawrence Barrett wears in "Julius Cæsar" an armor, gilt-faced, worth $500, the gift of Edwin Booth. The inscription on it is: "Brutus to Caius Cassius—Plains of Philippi." The toga worn by Mr. Barrett is of white scrape silk, and is very valuable.

—Catherine Sullivan, a girl of sixteen attempted to jump overboard from the Fulton ferryboat Winona, Monday evening, and was only restrained by force. She said she had been deceived by a young man and would commit suicide yet.

—The excellent panoramic painting representing the "Siege of Paris," now on exhibition at the Collosseum, Broadway and Thirty-fifth street, New York, are soon to be removed. Those admirers of art who have not seen the views should avail themselves of the time yet remaining. The building and pictures are to be taken to Philadelphia.

—Major J. W. Powell, in charge of the United States Geological and Geographical Survey of the Territories, is about to make a tour through Arizona and New Mexico, to collect specimens and curiosities, and make plaster casts representing the various tribal peculiarities of the Indians in those Territories, to be placed on exhibition during the Centennial at Philadelphia.

—At a meeting of the church officials or Circuit Committee of the Primitive Methodist Church, in Park avenue, Brooklyn, Monday night, the Rev. Fred. Bell, the singing preacher, ex-prize fighter, and ex-negro minstrel, the present pastor, was formally accused of making improper proposals to a married lady who is a member of the congregation. Mr. Bell denies the accusation and courts investigation.

—Prof. Dana, of Yale, is evidently a good judge of geological scratches. Recently, when he was accompanied by twenty-five members of the senior class to Mill Rock, near New Haven, to observe some glacial marks, one of the students secretly made some scratches of his own and called the Professor's attention to them. Prof. Dana replied, "They look like the work of an Irishman."

—It has been estimated by a gentleman closely identified with the Moody and Sankey meetings in Philadelphia, that at the eighteen Sunday meetings held there, there were present 225,000 persons; at the forty weekly evening meetings, 320,00; at the fifty-six noonday meetings 200.000; at the fourteen Bible readings, 70,000; at forty-eight young men's meetings, 24,000; at thirty-six young women's meetings, 10,000; and at thirty-six men's and women's afternoon meetings, 20,000. This gives a total of 869,000 persons; and it is thought that the meetings for boys, for parents, and others, will make the total attendance 875.000. It is estimated that 300,000 different persons heard the evangelists.

—It is generally believed that E. D. Winslow, ex-preacher, ex-editor, financier, etc., has sailed for Holland. Brussels is a city of refuge for scamps, as there is no extradition treaty between Holland, Belgium and the United States. Most of the fugitives connected with the Tweed frauds are there. Winslow went like a gentleman, taking his wife and family and household gods and goods. His Boston victims want him back, and have applied to the Dutch Charge d'Affairs at Washington to secure his arrest on his arrival at Rotterdam. There is little hope of that being done. At the instance of the King of Holland an extradition treaty between that country and the United States was once negotiated, but was rejected by the Senate. Therefore it can hardly be expected that the King of Holland will voluntarily cause the arrest of Winslow. This arch-hypocrite made his last public appearance as a preacher at Auburndale, Mass., on Sunday morning last week, when he delivered a sermon which is described by those who heard it as a masterly production, full of eloquence, pathos, and high moral sentiment, its theme being the good that is to be found among men, the nobleness of human nature, and the duty of men to their fellow-men. In the afternoon he addressed the children of the Sunday School on their duties to each other and to their God.
